The Vision for Civil Engineering in 2025

I'M AT HOME LEADING US INTO THE FUTURE. I'M HOME AT ASCE.

ASCE has been my home for more than 32 years. I look back fondly on my early years in the profession, but I have to admit, I'm truly passionate about what the future holds for civil engineers.

At times, we find ourselves caught up in the day-to-day rigors of our everyday lives; however, as the representative of the civil engineering profession, ASCE has the responsibility to look over the horizon to ensure you have the resources you need to tackle, not just the challenges of our profession, but the changing world as well. And that's why I approach the coming year looking forward to taking an active role together in forging the future of our profession.
